

Standard Participant Information Sheet

Instructions for Creating a Participant Information Sheet

This template is a guide only. The template needs to be modified to suit your own research project.

- There are prompts for the content of your Participant Information Sheet (in orange) and instructions regarding the format of your document (in blue). Please ensure that you delete all prompts (orange) and instructions (blue) from the final document.
- This template is for an online survey where the completion of the survey serves as implied consent for participation in your research project, please label the form clearly as such.
- There are 14 numbered sections in this template. Please ensure that all relevant sections are included and numbered appropriately in your final document.
- You should delete any headings and sections that are not relevant to your research project and/or modify paragraphs so that they are relevant to your research project.

Text style advice

- Preferred language recommendations for use in the Participant Information section are in black text.
- This guide proposes preferred language for some sections of the Participant Information Sheet. This preferred language may be the totality of what is required for the section or it may be a series of suggested phrases to be used along with other information in the section, as indicated by the guidelines pertaining to the section.
- Language used should be readily understandable by the participant (Year 8 reading level or below) and include Australian spelling of words.
- If translated Participant Information Sheets are to be used, please submit copies of both the English language version and translated versions with your human research ethics application.

Formatting

- Include the version date of the document in the footer of each page. Do not use the 'automatic' date insertion function.
- Use the '1 of X' pagination option. Ensure that all references to version date or pagination in the text are correct and consistent with the information in the footer.
- Text should be at least font size 11 in an easily readable font style.
- Ensure that all font styles and sizes, bolding, italicisation and underlining are intended and that any variations are consistent throughout the document.

Please ensure that your final document is proofread and remove this page before submission to ethics committee.

Title	Coral – Music to Our Ears
Principal Investigator/Senior Supervisor	Dr. Caroline Francis
Associate Investigator(s)/Associate Supervisor(s)	Coral – Music to Our Ears
Principal Research Student(s)	Cameron Campbell

What does my participation involve?

1 Introduction

You are invited to take part in this research project, which is called Coral – Music to Our Ears. You have been invited because the Principal Research Student is gathering broad information about how people connect with their music libraries, and how they share their music tastes with each other. Your contact details were obtained by your self-selection to participate in this survey through an online link posted to Instagram etc.

This Participant Information Sheet tells you about the research project. It explains the processes involved with taking part. Knowing what is involved will help you decide if you want to take part in the research.

Please read this information carefully. Ask questions about anything that you don't understand or want to know more about. Before deciding whether to take part, you might want to talk about it with a relative or friend.

Participation in this research is voluntary. If you don't wish to take part, you don't have to.

If you decide you want to take part in the research project, you may continue to the survey after reading this Participant Information Sheet. By completing the survey you are telling us that you:

- Understand what you have read
- Consent to take part in the research project

You may download a copy of this Participant Information Sheet to keep.

You can find a copy of this at <https://camcam.zip/coral/pis>

2 What is the purpose of this research?

Understanding how organise and listen to music, and how they share the music they like with people in their social circle.

The results of this research will be used by the researcher Cameron Campbell to obtain a Bachelor of Industrial Design (Honours) degree.

This research has been initiated by the researcher, Cameron Campbell.

3 What does participation in this research involve?

Completing an online survey (10-15mins) about how you listen to music, and how you share it with others.

There are no costs associated with participating in this research project, nor will you be paid.

4 Other relevant information about the research project

This survey is aiming to collect responses from ~40 participants, and from the pool of participants ~10 will be selected for follow up 1-on-1 interviews. You can choose to submit personal contact information at the end of the survey if you wish to be contacted for follow up interviews.

5 Do I have to take part in this research project?

Participation in any research project is voluntary. If you do not wish to take part, you do not have to. If you decide to take part and later change your mind, you are free to withdraw from the project at any stage.

If you do decide to take part, you will be given this Participant Information and Consent Form to sign and you will be given a copy to keep.

Your decision whether to take part or not to take part, or to take part and then withdraw, will not affect your relationship with the researchers or with RMIT University.

[If you choose to include personal contact information]

Submitting your completed questionnaire is an indication of your consent to participate in the study. You can withdraw your responses any time if you change your mind about having them included in the study before we have analysed and published the results.

[If you wish to remain anonymous]

Submitting your completed questionnaire is an indication of your consent to participate in the study. You can withdraw your responses any time before you have submitted the questionnaire. Once you have submitted it, your responses cannot be withdrawn because they are non-identifiable and therefore, we will not be able to tell which one is yours.

[If you are selected for an interview]

You may stop the interview at any time. Unless you say that you want us to keep them, any recordings will be erased and information you have provided will not be included in the study results. You may also refuse to answer any questions that you do not wish to answer during the interview.

6 What are the possible benefits of taking part?

We cannot guarantee or promise that you will receive any benefits from this research; however, you may appreciate contributing to knowledge about how people relate to music.

7 What are the risks and disadvantages of taking part?

You may feel that some of the questions we ask are stressful or upsetting. If you do not wish to answer a question, you may skip it and go to the next question, or you may stop immediately. If you become upset or distressed because of your participation in the research project, members of the research team will be able to discuss appropriate support for you.

This project will use an external site to create, collect and analyse data collected in a survey format. The site we are using is Tally.so. If you agree to participate in this survey, the responses you provide will be stored on their host server. No personal information will be collected in the survey unless you choose to include it. Once we have completed our data collection and analysis, we will import the data to the RMIT server where it will be stored securely for five years. The data on the host server will then be deleted and expunged.

8 What if I withdraw from this research project?

If you do consent to participate, you may withdraw within 5 business days of submission. If you decide to withdraw from the project, please notify a member of the research team.

You have the right to have any unprocessed data withdrawn and destroyed, providing it can be reliably identified.

9 What happens when the research project ends?

Results from your participation will be used to inform the design and development of a website for music discovery and sharing. The planned release for the closed beta testing of this website is November 2026. If you wish to be notified of when this testing begins you can reach out at coral@camcam.au.

How is the research project being conducted?

10 What will happen to information about me?

By continuing on to the survey, you are consenting to the research team collecting and using information from you for the research project. Any information obtained in connection with this research project that can identify you will remain confidential. This information will remain with the principal research student. Information collected through the online survey will be stored in their own secure servers and will not be linked with your personal information unless you nominate to include that for potential interview contact. The interviews will be conversational in nature and may include personal anecdotes, memories or opinions. These interviews will only be recorded with your consent, and none of the recordings will be stored online or published without express consent of the interviewee.

It is anticipated that the results of this research project will be published and/or presented in a variety of forums. In any publication and/or presentation, information will be provided in such a way that you cannot be identified, except with your express permission. The results will indicate general trends in the relationship between music and people. If something in an interview proves specifically useful, the principal research student will contact the interviewee for express consent to publish. The interviewees name does not need to be published with this.

In accordance with relevant Australian and/or Victorian privacy and other relevant laws, you have the right to request access to the information about you that is collected and stored by the research team. You also have the right to request that any information with which you disagree be corrected. Please inform the research team member named at the end of this document if you would like to access your information.

Any information that you provide can be disclosed only if (1) it is protect you or others from harm, (2) if specifically allowed by law, (3) you provide the researchers with written permission. Any information obtained for the purpose of this research that can identify you will be treated as confidential and securely stored.

11 Who is organising and funding the research?

This research project is being conducted by Cameron Campbell.

12 Who has reviewed the research project?

All research in Australia involving humans is reviewed by an independent Ethics review body. This research project has been approved by one of the RMIT University review bodies. This project will be carried out according to the National Statement on Ethical Conduct in Human Research (2023). This statement has been developed to protect the interests of people who agree to participate in human research studies.
